Mining Men Start A Circle For War Work

First Meeting at University
Club Brings Out Get Together Sentiment.

Preliminary steps for the organization of a circle to be composed of mining men of the southwestern states and of northern Mexico were taken by mining men in attendance at the weekly meeting of the University club Wednesday. President Norman Walker turned the meeting over to H. J. Baron, chairman of the mining men's circle, who, after explaining the necessity for a mining men's circle, presented Prof. F. H. Seamon, of the school of mines, who said that this is a time when mining engineers are able to render most useful service in the war.

It is my experience that, peace and war, the mining men do not neglect the mining fraternity and mining interests," said L. Worcester. This view was shared by J. E. Klotz.

Julius Krakauer suggested keeping a register of mining men.

U. M. Hillary, of Chihuahua, was a guest.

Final organization will be made at a meeting later.

President Walker invited the mining men to attend an informal gathering of the club Saturday night to hear election returns.

NAVAL FORCES COMING OCEAN FOR SUBMARINE

Boston, Mass., July 23.—Officials of the first naval district made every effort today to locate the enemy submarine operating off the New England coast.

Seaplanes, submarine chasers and motor craft were ordered out to supplement the regular coast guard patrol.

Naval and marine men were inclined to the opinion that only one submarine had been in New England waters, but destroyers, alerted by the crews of the sunken craft indicate there were two.
